Your privacy rights

Effective 4 November 2026 · v1.0

Make a request

Reply to any message from us or email adrian@gtme.cc. Describe what you want in your own words. You do not need a login, a form, legal terminology or a reason to stop direct marketing.

The controller is DIGITAL Adrian Żebrowski, trading as GTME, Gdańsk, Poland; NIP 9571194723; REGON 543098783.

Stop marketing

Your objection to direct marketing is absolute and includes profiling related to that marketing. We stop marketing use and restrict the record to the minimum suppression information needed to avoid contacting you again. We review that information annually while outbound activity continues.

This does not necessarily erase every record: evidence of a request, a separate legal obligation or legal claims may justify limited retention for another purpose. We will explain any applicable reason. Rights requests and suppression information are not used for commercial targeting.

Other rights

- Ask for access to your personal data, its sources, purposes, recipients and retention information.
- Correct inaccurate data or complete incomplete information.
- Request deletion or restriction where the legal conditions apply.
- Receive data in a portable format where processing is automated and based on consent or a contract, within the scope of that right.
- Withdraw consent at any time, without affecting earlier lawful processing. Website choices can also be changed through “Cookie settings”.
- Object to other legitimate-interest processing on grounds relating to your situation. That right has different conditions from the unconditional marketing objection.

How we respond

We respond without undue delay and within one month of receiving your request. If complexity or the number of requests justifies an extension, the law allows up to two additional months; we tell you within the first month and explain why.

We may ask for proportionate additional information if we have reasonable doubts about your identity. We do not require an identity-document copy by default. Requests are free unless a statutory exception, such as a manifestly unfounded or excessive request, applies. If we refuse or charge a permitted fee, we explain the basis and your options.

Complaints

You can complain to the Polish supervisory authority, UODO, or another competent authority, particularly where you live, work or believe an infringement occurred. Where UK data-protection law applies, you can contact the Information Commissioner’s Office. You do not have to contact us first.

For the processing details, read our privacy notice and prospecting privacy notice.
